MIA South Terminal – 3rd Floor – Meeter Greeter Lobby

MISO's ninety-piece ensemble to perform for unsuspecting travelers in Miami International Airport's South Terminal in a first seen concert of its kind.

The Miami Symphony Orchestra (MISO) has partnered with the Miami-Dade Aviation Department to perform a symphonic concert at Miami International Airport's South Terminal on Saturday, May 14th, 2011. MISO wishes to surprise arriving passengers to Miami International Airport (MIA) by giving them a warm musical welcome as part of MIA's mission to showcase Miami's vast cultural offerings, including Miami Symphony Orchestra and in conjunction with MISO's Music in Unsuspected Spaced community concert series.

Featuring the works of their Romantic Finale concert:

Brahms: Academic Festival Overture

Rachmaninoff: Piano Concerto No. 2 in C minor

Dvorak: Symphony No. 8 in G major

with Yury Shadrin, Piano

Eduardo Marturet, Conductor

A full size ninety piece symphony orchestra, accompanied by Russian born Virtuoso Yury Shadrin at the piano under the masterful conduction of Eduardo Marturet is indeed a world-class performance not many would expect to experience in an airport terminal but surely will delight the traveling passengers and will be a memorable cultural experience they will take away from Miami.

Meet and Greet Reception for VIP Guests to Immediately Follow

Music In Unsuspected Spaces is part of MISO's community concert series, which brings their talented orchestra to various South Florida locations, surprising patrons with their amazing talent free of charge. A similar event was carried out in South Florida's Aventura Mall on January 16th, 2010, which caused a crowd-stopping audience of hundreds of shoppers literally sitting on the floor to catch the show in beautiful awe.

The Miami-Dade Aviation Department, a strong supporter of MISO and cultural initiatives, agreed that providing this performance is step toward achieving their common goals of enriching the community. MISO's generous support by Donald J. Pliner ensures that this world-class orchestra sets foot in style.
